Meet Salus Palliative Care's Nurse Practitioner Victoria Valensky:

Victoria is Board Certified as a Geriatric Nurse Practitioner as well as a Family Nurse Practitioner with 15 years of disease management experience focusing on cardiac, pulmonary and diabetes health. In every hand she touches, conversation she has and decision she makes, Victoria's passion for providing patients and families with uncompromised, high quality care is evident.

"As the Palliative Care Nurse Practitioner I provide uncompromised, compassionate and holistic care for patients and families at every stage while living through a life-threatening illness, empowering them with knowledge and support to better self-manage their health. My goal for patients is to prevent and relieve their suffering and ultimately, improve the quality of their lives."

Why Choose Salus?

1. Accreditation

- Salus is nationally accredited for quality by the Joint Commission
- The Joint Commission is the most respected health care accreditation agency with rigorous standards for patient safety and continuity of care
- Accreditation provides assurance that you are receiving the highest quality palliative care available

2. Your Loved Ones Deserve the Best

You have choices when selecting a palliative care provider, and the decisions you make will impact your quality of life, physical and emotional health, and the wellbeing of your loved ones. The Salus Palliative Care team surrounds you with the support you need from the very beginning. We go that extra mile by providing::

- Same day admissions so support is provided in a timely manner
- Training you need to care for your loved one and remain safe at home
- Adapting care delivery to treatment preferences and according to your beliefs and values
- Helping you to effectively manage pain so any curative treatments are more comfortable and the need for rehospitalizations is reduced
- Providing timely communication and beneficial support to family members

3. We are Highly Respected

Maybe most importantly, our patients and their families proudly call Salus their palliative care provider of choice and recommend us to others.

A Physician's Point of View on Palliative Care

"Facing a life changing diagnosis is never easy and highly personal. Decisions have to be made, and there's a lot of information to absorb. When pursuing curative treatments, a person often copes with pain, discomfort and other side effects. The mind and body need support. Your family needs support too. Palliative care is an avenue which provides that essential support, renews hope and improves quality of life. The Salus team will listen and learn about your needs, guide you through difficult decisions and help you to succeed in achieving your goals. You matter to us, and it is my honor to work on your behalf and help you discover a better tomorrow."

– R. DeMonte, M.D.
